The MAGIC Feather

Dear Estela.

This weekend was crazy for me. You might not believe me, but all of this is true. I swear.

This weekend I was sitting in my room playing this video game called Super Slime Simulator.

While I was playing I heard a knock on my window. It was a bird. So I opened my window and that bird had a yellow feather in beak. The bird looked like a weird type of bird I have never seen before. It was red but had black wings. In a second I opened the window and the bird dropped the yellow feather in to my room.

Then the bird flew away. So I closed the window and picked up the yellow feather but then I suddenly noticed that I started to fly. At first I got scared so I quickly let go of the yellow feather, but after I let the feather go I fell to the floor. The first thing I did was run down stairs to tell my mom about the feather. After that I brought my Mom upstairs to show her the feather and then she started to fly.

My Mom told me to leave the feather, but then I got this idea. The idea was to tie myself to a long rope, make my Mom hold the other end, go out side, pick up the feather and fly like a kite. The first thing
