

The Magic Feather

I needed to do was make my mom hold the other end. When I came down stairs I started to explain my plan to Mom. But when I finished explaining, my Mom said that "Until you figure out how to control the feather I will not do it!" So the next thing I did was go up stairs, on my bed, picking up the feather and flying in my bedroom.

The first thing that came to my head was to turn the feather upside down, and when I did that I suddenly started floating down. Then I tried putting the feather to it's side and then I started to float to the side. I tried it a few more times and realised that I learned how to control the feather.

Straight after that I ran down stairs to tell my Mom. I showed her how to control it, then brought out the rope, tied myself up to it, gave my Mom the other end, picked up the feather and ran outside. When I went outside I started to fly. Everything was going well but suddenly the rope untied from my hip. So I started to fly higher. I knew what to do to get down, but just when I was going to do that, I saw that there was a elephant loose.
